

Copyright & Terms

Copyright

Effective August 1, 2009

Essential Copyright Guidelines

- In many cases the copying of Torah Class and our other publications is permitted by individuals, churches, and synagogues for non-commercial, non-profit use provided that the following guidelines and provisions are followed. Otherwise, special permission is required.
- Need clarification? Desire to request special permission? Please contact us at info@torahclass.com or call 321 454-9322.

Copyright Detail

Duplication of any Torah Class, torahclass.com, holylandmarketplace.com, or Seed Of Abraham Ministries, Inc. publication is permitted only within the terms and guidelines of this Copyright statement. The term "publication" means any kind or method of publication and therefore reproduction, duplication, or display by any mechanical, optical, digital media, or electronic methods (in part or in whole) is prohibited except as specifically permitted within this Copyright statement.

This copyright includes, and is not limited to lessons, articles, blogs, forum contents, online bible content, and all video, audio, text, graphics, maps, charts, and presentations unless otherwise specified in writing.

All of our publications are submitted to the copyright protection laws of the United States and its international convention and treaty partners. If you are permitted to duplicate our materials according to this Copyright statement, no contact with us or special permission by us is required. If special permission is required and we give you expressed written permission to reproduce any of our material that written permission must accompany each individual copy you make.

Under no circumstances may any of our material be used, copied, presented, or displayed if sold for a price or for barter, or if used in any kind of presentation when a fee is charged, without our express written permission.

Reproduction and duplication of our materials is permitted for individual use and for small group study. An example of permitted use where no special permission is required is for individual and family study, home fellowships, bible study groups, seminary or bible college papers, and church and synagogue meetings.

Under no circumstances may any of our material be placed on any website (commercial, non-profit, personal, public, or private) without written special permission.

Under no circumstances may any of our material be translated into other language(s) without our written special permission.

Reference and Citation

In all cases when duplication, display, or presentation of our materials occurs (with and without the need for special permission), reference and citation is mandatory otherwise permission (implied or special) is revoked.

When citing from our published works and materials please include the following:

Name of Resource

Article Title / Section (if applicable)

Author

Torah Class

<https://torahclass.com>

321 454-9322

Example

Old Testament Studies, Genesis week 1 Introduction, Tom Bradford, Torah Class, <https://torahclass.com>, 321 454-9322